

New Life In London

In London Shelley and Adrienne have been meeting with a non Christian student called Anna every week this term. Though she had a church background, she did not have a personal relationship with God. Adrienne remembers, "When I first met her, she said she would be interested in learning more about the Bible, so we have been studying the book of John together. In one of our first meetings, I was able to share the Knowing God Personally booklet with her and ask her if she wanted to invite Jesus into her life. At the time she said she wasn't ready because she wanted to think more about it. The following week she told us she still had not said the prayer because she wanted to be really serious about it when she did. After that, I didn't want to harass her, so I was nervous to ask her about it. I have been praying for her all term, but I wasn't sure if she ever made the decision. Finally, I asked her if she had thought more about saying the prayer and she said that she had about a week or two ago! I am so excited that God used us in her life to bring her into a relationship with Him";
